

I promised you

I promised you so much
words to live by
in every little touch
a lifetime supply

to ease all your pain
a season in the sun
a shoulder in the rain

And all the time
is left for me
and all the time
I wait to see
and all the time
I never spent at all

I promised you so much
in the lashes of night in the last summer breeze till the dewfall of light

I promised you so much
if you'd only stay I'll promise you some more and walk along your way
